He succeeds Mr. Baboucarr Bouy from The Gambia, who was elected in March 2018. The 69th Meeting, which was held online from Monday, March 22 to Friday, March 26, 2021, was declared open by His Excellency Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo, President and Commander-In-Chief of the Armed Forces of the Republic of Ghana. In his keynote address, President Akufo-Addo described WAEC as a dominant institution in the West African sub-region which had consistently produced leaders in various fields of endeavour and a workforce to drive the economy.

He commended WAEC for regularly generating reports and statistics to guide the member countries in policy formulation and implementation. He also congratulated the Council on the successful execution of its mandate in 2020 despite the COVID-19 pandemic. The President expressed delight over the impressive performance of the first batch of beneficiaries of his government's Free Senior High School Policy who sat WASSCE for School Candidates in the year 2020. He decried the spate of examination malpractice in the sub-region and promised greater collaboration between his government and WAEC to curb the malaise and further improve on the quality of education in Ghana. Council meets once each year and the meeting is hosted in rotation by the five member countries – The Gambia, Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria and Sierra Leone.

The 68th Meeting, which was originally scheduled for March 23 to 27, 2020 in Monrovia, Liberia, but had to be postponed due to the COVID-19 pandemic, was successfully held online from March 1 to 4, 2021. Delegates from the member countries who attended the five-day 69th Meeting included government nominees and representatives of the ministries of education, universities, secondary schools and other interest groups. During the deliberations, Council received the Registrar's Annual Report on the activities of the Headquarters and five National Offices, and ratified the decisions taken on its behalf by its committees in the preceding year. Council also considered the action plans presented by the Headquarters and National Offices for their operations in the current year.

Furthermore, Council received from the leaders of the five country delegations detailed reports on developments in the educational sector in their respective countries, and appreciated the Governments for the various interventions aimed at improving the quality of education and performance in public examinations. Council likewise expressed profound gratitude to the Governments for doing everything necessary to ensure the continued existence and relevance of WAEC in their respective domains. Council called for more collaborative efforts by the stakeholders in education to stop all forms of examination fraud in the sub-region.

It advocated the creation of a forum for regular interactions among the Ministers of Education of the member countries in view of the benefits of such collaborative platforms for the development of education. It also appreciated the students, teachers, schools, officials of the ministries of education, parents, security agencies, service providers and all other stakeholders who had contributed to the Council's successes and achievements over the years.
